

Colleen Canning, JD, CPHRM is an Assistant Vice President for ACE Medical Risk. She is responsible for providing a range of risk management consulting services to clients that addresses their administrative, clinical and operational risks, including providing assessments to support her client's loss control efforts. Colleen also researches and develops educational materials regarding current trends in healthcare and patient safety.

A graduate of Kenyon College and Albany Law School, Colleen is an attorney admitted to practice in New York. Prior to joining ACE Medical Risk, she was a senior associate at a well-known medical malpractice defense firm in New York. Colleen has successfully defended academic medical centers, community hospitals, diagnostic laboratories, physicians, nurses, dentists and other allied healthcare professionals and organizations against professional liability claims. She has handled the litigation of complex, high exposure cases from inception to conclusion and has also worked with healthcare risk managers on a wide range of medical legal issues to mitigate risk and reduce potential liability.

Dick Sem is President of Sem Security Management, a security and workplace violence consulting firm based in Wisconsin. He has worked with dozens of healthcare facilities across the United States. Recently, Sem assessed ten hospitals following incidents of violence and elicited lessons learned from those incidents. He developed and conducted training on healthcare workplace violence programs, and served as an expert witness in many healthcare security and violence-related litigations.

Sem has over 40 years of security and workplace violence management experience. He served as Global Director of Security and Crisis Management for Waste Management, and was Vice President of Pinkerton/Securitas where he was responsible for the Northeastern United States. Sem has been board certified as a Certified Protection Professional (CPP) since 1979, and as a Certified Security Consultant (CSC). He was the Vice President of the International Association of Professional Security Consultants (IAPSC), was President of the International Security Management Association (ISMA), and has published several articles on security and workplace violence.