Table 1 – The Grieving Families Act

Shawn P. Kelly, Esq., Senior Partner
Kelly, Rode & Kelly, LLP

This law amends the state's wrongful death law by permitting families to recover non-financial damages for emotional anguish if their loved one was a victim of a wrongful death.

Learning Objectives: How this law will dramatically change the wrongful death statute in the EPTL. How this new statute, if signed into law, will alter the discovery conducted by the defense in reaction to the nuances of this statute? Especially if it is applied retroactively.

Table 2 – Healthcare Organizations and Enterprise Risk Management (ERM)

Mike Midgley, RN, JD, MPH, CPHRM, DFASHRM
Head of Loss Control – Munich Re Specialty Insurance

Within your healthcare organization the practice of ERM promotes a comprehensive framework for making risk management decisions which maximizes value protection and value creation by managing risk and uncertainty. Healthcare risk professionals tend to be most comfortable managing clinical risks and patient safety, yet some of the critical exposures within our organizations are in other categories of risk like: Operational, Strategic, Financial, Human Capital, Legal / Regulatory, Technology and Hazard. Prudent healthcare risk professionals look at any exposure or opportunity to create value for their organizations through the lens of all the risk categories.

Learning Objectives: Describe how to analyze risk using all the 8 risk categories. Explain how to use ERM in mitigating risk exposure and creating value for your organization. List the benefits of using the 8 risk categories to make risk management decisions.
